"IMAGES OF BLOOMINGTON BY SHANNON ZAHNLE"

Judges Comments: The three winners here offered an uncommon view, either through use of light, color, or perhaps the most difficult thing to capture in a photo, humor.

Images of Bloomington stood out because the photographer showed a deft use of light and color in multiple situations, from a cold winter scene or a nighttime walk at a bus station. Moments of people were caught, showing both color and composition in the photographs.

INDIANA DAILY STUDENT

"SEXUAL ASSAULT AT IU"

Judges Comments: Thorough reporting about the complexities and "gray" areas surrounding sexual assaults and responses on university campuses. It is obvious the investigative team discussed the implications of the stories and decided how to cover several angles. Excellent use of narrative, data and graphics to explain the stories. The writing is transparent and open. This is one of the best sexual assault series I've seen this year.

"IDSNEWS.COM"

Judges Comments: The idsnews.com site looks and reads like a professional website: design is clean and functional, topics vary, stories are well told, headlines are solid. The site offers something for every student, and did not shy way from tough topics such as campus sexual assaults.
